DIVERSITY CALENDAR

The Anti-Racism, Equity and Human Rights Services team is pleased to present our Diversity Calendar. The art has been created by our George Brown College Community artists who self-identity as members of our diverse community, including but not limited to indigenous, 2SLGBTQ2+, non-binary, deaf, racialized, persons with disabilities, and allies.

The images featured have been submitted from the December 2022 student call-out contest by The School of Design and The Office of Anti-Racism, Equity & Human Rights Services. The goal of these images is to reflect on how experiences connect to the calendar themes of social justice, intersections of identity, belonging in a diverse, intersectional, and inclusive community at George Brown College.

Did we miss something? Want to be featured in next year's calendar? E-mail us at diversity@georgebrown.ca.

This photo represents the theme of Belonging. The taller of the two mushrooms fought to grow between these deck boards, despite the possibilities of being trampled or plucked away, drawing moisture into the wood and thus forcing it to give way for its roots to find footing. The taller mushroom grappled with other organisms also trying to find their place to flourish, creating an environment where the smaller mushroom could find its space to grow in the protection of its paragon. This photograph represents having someone who fought to find their place, someone to look up to who stands tall and strong where they are, who exudes a sense of belonging even if it is apparent that they haven't always been where they are now, someone who never folded in the face of difficulty or disadvantage. The taller mushroom portrays someone who knows the struggle of finding one's place in the world and who now stands as a role model to inspire others to follow in finding their unfettered sense of belonging, wherever that may be.

This image shows a single page of white paper with horizontal blue or grey ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There is no handwriting or other markings on the paper.

My goal for this painting was to communicate self love and acceptance for your own body—its shape and colour, which is something I found a lot of my friends being insecure about. I created this to connect with them and offer a safe space.

I grew up in a westernized Chinese family-run restaurant in Canada. I've lost a lot of my cultural identity by trying to "fit in," but now I'm trying to reconnect with my culture through the food my family makes.

Being an immigrant, I struggled a lot to find a place that would allow me to be myself and fit in. It was difficult and scary to experience at such a young age. Through this piece, I am able to show the many different people of all shapes and sizes that I was able to encounter coming to Canada.

This image reflects a sense of identity and belonging within the LGBTQIA+. As a queer person, I wanted to showcase a simple and sweet illustration of two women together, one woman is wearing a lesbian flag pin, and the other is wearing a bisexual flag pin.

I felt super motivated while making this! My artwork reflects positive social messages. For example, Sense of freedom, justice, intersection of identity, belonging. I used rainbow colors to show happiness and positive energy for belonging. I also showed tiny toys helping each other to show brotherhood. You can feel the women's facial expression and her earring, giving sense of freedom.

This piece connects to the the intersecting identities of South Asian beauty, features and complexions. Each one of us are so unique and beautiful, yet we still face discrimination and judgement within our own communities. I coloured my characters green, blue, and orange to metaphorically show that our skin colours are all beautiful. But in general, our outer appearance doesn't define our true colours/characters from deep within.

I prefer to be recognized by my stage name as it identifies me as a transracial intercountry reclaimed and rediscovered displaced Afro Indigenous Colombian adoptee and survivor of the 60s scoop. The painting (2010) is from a sketch of my daughter (2000) – we were both displaced and removed from our identity and culture as infants.

I believe that love is common ground that can bring people together across gender, sexuality, politics, nationality, and religion. And in my experience, falling in love exists beyond the boxes of gender and sexuality we put ourselves in.

This artwork is aimed to be open for interpretation, but I like to think of it as an illustration on individualism and developing your own personality, and being happy with yourself. I have struggled with finding my identity for long and wanted to create something that makes me feel warm and relatable.

This piece with different types of eyes connects to the topic of identity, beauty and colonization. I've often seen people with brown eyes feeling that their eyes are considered less beautiful. The truth is all coloured eyes are gorgeous. Blue eyes are the ocean. Brown eyes are soil. Green eyes are leaves and grass. Hazel eyes are honey. The list goes on.
