Traveling to Germany, Belgium and France, this for-credit study abroad course explores Corporate Governance requirements in the European Union and North America.

As a result of corporate and government scandals, compliance issues and good governance have become increasingly important for all organizations. Public reaction, including lawsuits and criminal prosecutions, has resulted in increased business risk in an already complex operating environment. This has created renewed focus on good governance. This study abroad program will focus on several key ethical and legal issues related to corporate governance. Specific topics include an examination of federal and provincial regulatory requirements, corporate governance theories and mechanisms, the role of stakeholders, and corporate directors.

Students who successfully complete this program abroad and the scheduled classes at George Brown College will receive credit towards a business elective (if in a diploma program) or credit for Corporate Governance & Compliance (BBUS 3103) in the degree program.
