The Women's Resource and Outreach Centre Limited (WROC) is a non-profit with a legacy of activism and advocacy for the interests of women, especially those from the urban inner city and rural areas. The main purpose and mission of WROC is to provide support for women, their families and communities within a human rights and gender-responsive approach. The organization has strong links within Jamaica and national influence on the women's sector.

With over 30 years of experience, some of their recent projects that GBC students may have an opportunity to work with include 1) skills training with youth, 2) support of vulnerable women, 3) seniors inter-generational program, 4) at-risk young males outreach and 5) research & community development.

This is a fantastic opportunity to experience community & social service delivery in an international setting and develop several skills including:

- Group facilitation
- Teaching
- Advocacy
- Working across differences
