We require clients who do not speak English to bring a friend or family member to each appointment to translate information.

WAVE Health Promotion

George Brown College invites partners and like-minded organizations to collaborate, research and discuss health and wellness issues with our students. Through this platform, our partners and students will research critical issues including child obesity, nutrition and food literacy, disease prevention and more.

SERVICES:

Students from a variety of programs will deliver workshops on topics such as healthy eating, how to quit smoking, heart health, diabetes prevention and management, and more. Community groups, schools and local businesses are invited to participate.

For a complete listing of upcoming workshops, please email healthyU@georgebrown.ca or visit georgebrown.ca/wave/healthpromotion

This fee guide contains general information only. Fees are subject to change and the cost will adjust to specific treatments. Clients will be notified in advance of any additional fees related to restorative or denture services.
