"My time at George Brown College was better than I anticipated. Being a student of the Business Administration – Project Management program prepared me for the world of project management by teaching me the skills and knowledge needed to take on projects of any scope.

This program gave me the opportunity to work with upper-level management here at George Brown through the Real World Project Management course and gave me an idea of what to expect in the working world. My professors were amazing. I especially enjoyed professors Derek Vigar and Costin Laurentiu's teaching methods, which helped me greatly in understanding how to successfully manage projects. What I love most about this field is that it is transferable, meaning that I can use my skills and knowledge in various industries as long as I know how that industry works. Returning to college to complete this program was the best decision I ever made and today I am reaping the benefits."

Monique Tucker (Graduate 2016, Business Administration – Project Management); Development Associate, Toronto General and Western Hospital Foundation

"Having a field placement with Toronto 2015 gave me the upper hand when the organization was hiring. Although I didn't have any full-time work experience when I started, the tools and concepts I learned at school were transferable to the projects here." Hear more about Aaman's experience at George Brown College's Centre for Business and learn how we connect students to industry during their studies by watching our video<sup>15</sup>.

Aaman Dudani (Graduate 2013, Business Administration); Project Manager, Work Place Safety and Insurance Board (WSIB)
