Organizations today require engaged, motivated employees who understand how to effectively support organizational goals while enhancing their own skills and knowledge. Becoming a valued advisor to the business is a Human Resources (HR) imperative, and understanding how to effectively demonstrate a set of key behaviours is of utmost importance.

George Brown’s Human Resources Management graduate certificate program comprehensively covers the key HR functions in this exciting field. Taught by seasoned HR professionals with industry experience, the program blends business-related theory and practical application to highlight how HR functions as a strategic partner to business units. Students explore the role of the HR department and the key accountability requirements to demonstrate a high level of professionalism in a work-related setting.

Upon completion of the program, you will be able to:

• Describe how employment legislation impacts human resources
• Design human resources policies and programs
• Facilitate employee training and development
• Ensure health and safety in the workplace
• Recruit and select employees
• Promote diversity
• Manage performance
• Recommend strategic change initiatives
• Develop a total rewards system
• Manage employee/labour relations
• Create a comprehensive human resources plan

For those students who wish to pursue the Certified Human Resources Professional designation (CHRP), all applicable courses in the B408 program are HRPA approved. The courses prepare students to write the National Knowledge Exam offered by the Human Resources Professionals Association (HRPA). Refer to hrpa.ca for requirements and additional information on this designation.

This Centre for Business program is part of our School of Human Resources.

“George Brown’s postgraduate Human Resources Management program has been an outstanding stepping stone for me as I enter the HR professional field. I am grateful to the professors for encouraging and supporting all students with the opportunity to excel within the curriculum. The professors have exceptional HR experiences that provide further insight and real-life examples of what we learn. George Brown has provided me with the fundamental skills and knowledge that I will be able to transfer to my professional career.”

Caroline Vieira (Graduate 2016, Human Resources Management)

“At the start of this program I vowed I would do my best to achieve nothing short of excellence in the Human Resources postgraduate program, as many people tried to discourage me from pursuing a career in Human Resources, since I was coming from a purely science educational background. As a result, a lot of friends and family were not convinced I could make a smooth transition to the business field without starting from an undergraduate business program level. Today I can boldly say I proved myself right in pursuing this program, and I am more committed than ever to the community of George Brown College that has brought me so much joy and success.”

Franklina Tawiah (Graduate 2015, Human Resources Management), Human Resources Generalist, Polar Pak Inc.

“We got to work on HR information management systems that showed us a sneak peek of what we’d be working on once we finished the program. Plenty of the software and interview tools I use at work every day today.”

Robert Forsyth (Graduate 2012, Human Resources Management)

“George Brown College has always kept its students engaged and involved. Rewards and recognition strategies at George Brown were exceptional, which ended up being applicable to my current job as an employment engagement specialist.”

Divya Mishra (Graduate 2012, Human Resources Management)

“I got all the real-world skills and hands-on experience that I could ask for. A lot of the skills that I learned at George Brown during my program were very transferable. We were practicing what we might actually do in the real world as if we were working for an organization already and expected to do these things. Co-op is also one of the biggest elements in any one of these postgraduate programs. They had a real focus on building those relationships with employers, I did my co-op at the Metropolitan Hotel in downtown Toronto. I spent about five months there, working as their HR Coordinator and it was an incredible experience.”
