

Program Roadmap: Is this program right for you?

About You

- You have a logical, nuts-and-bolts approach to decision making.
- You're interested in how things get made.
- You're methodical in your approach to designing flow and structure.
- You're interested in finding solutions that combine old world (i.e. trucks) and new world technology (i.e. management information systems).

Are you ready?

- To build your knowledge base through core courses in 1st and 2nd year before delving into the more advanced technical elements and applying concepts in 3rd year.
- To commit to spending as much time preparing for class as you spend in class.
- To be professional and prepared at all times both in class and in the field. That includes turning off your phone in class or in meetings.
- To write and deliver clearly written, well-researched reports and engaging presentations in English.

Did you know?

- There will be a learning curve that involves memorizing lots of acronyms and new vocabulary. You will need to keep it all straight.
- Honing your math skills will be important. Don't worry, faculty-led and peer tutoring assistance is available.
